The Galveston News states that the Mexican army at Matamoros is said to be 8,000 strong, and are engaged in fortifying that city. Per contra, the Civilian declares that from the best information, the number of troops at Matamoros does not exceed 1,500—that they are badly supported, and not more efficient than Mexican soldiers usually are.

HARR ALXANDER.—The feast of this wonderful performer, at the Military Hall, Thursday evening, elicited the most unbounded applause from a large and delighted audience. He performs with ease and grace, and there is more of the Magician about him than any other person we ever saw.—He performs again this evening.

Massachusetts Election.—The special election for representative in Congress in the Bristol district has again resulted in no choice. "No Meat" Williams is certainly defeated. In 19 towns, Hale (Whig) has 2,335 votes; Williams, (L. F.) 2,225; scattering, 708.

SALTRENE.—Professor Stillman, in reply to a New York committee, gives it as his opinion that saltpetre is not explosive, but the gases arising from it are highly so.

UNPARALLELED EXPLOIT.—Thomas McFarlan, one of the persons attached to Welch & Mann's Circus last year in Philadelphia, turned sixty-six some time in recession, for which he was presented by the proprietors with a gold watch worth $300. The company performed in Syracuse recently, and Mr. Mann there turned sixty-eight some time in recession.

Somebody who has a Dutch sweetheart, thus discourses of her charms:

My love wears a beautiful bustle,
Not made up of cotton or bran,
But out of the genuine muscle,
According to nature's own plan.

LOVE AND ROMANCE.—The following is the prettiest little romance we have met with for some time:

Thomas a Becket inherited a romantic turn of mind from his mother, whose story is a singular one. His father, Gilbert Becket, a flourishing citizen, had been in his youth a soldier in the Crusades, and, being taken prisoner, became a slave to an Emir, or Saracen prince. By degrees he obtained the confidence of his master, and was admitted to his company, where he met a person who became more attached to him. This was the Emir's daughter. Whether by her means or not does not appear, but after some time he contrived to escape. The lady, with loving heart, followed him. She knew, they say, but two words of his language, London and Gilbert; and, by repeating the former, she obtained a passage in a vessel, arrived in England, and found her trusting way to the merchant. She then took her other tale, and went from street to street, pronouncing "Gilbert." A crowd collected about her wherever she went, asking, of course, a thousand questions, and to all she had but one answer—Gilbert! Gilbert! She found her faith in sufficient. Chance, or her determination to go through every street, brought her at last to the one in which she was to dwell. The crowd drew the family to the window; his servant recognized her, and Gilbert a Becket took to his arms and his bride bed his far-come princess with her solitary good word.

IMPORTANT CRISIS IN INDIA.—Unquestionably (says Bishop Wilson, of Calcutta) a crisis seems approaching in India with rapid strides. Education has been going on for fifty years; all officers, up to a certain class, are thrown open to Hindoo talent and character; the native mind is bursting out with knowledge; commerce is opening for riches; medicine is following the steps of western science; railroads are about to accelerate internal communications; the present Governor General, Sir Henry Hardinge, is full of enlightened zeal for native improvement; the invention and application of steam vessels is rendering Calcutta a suburb, as it were, of London. In such a moment, Christianity must sanctify the process, or inordinate luxury and selfishness will blight the gifts of God.

OUTRAGE.—For some fancied injury done to their property on Long Island, by the railroad, some individuals (about 40 in number, with their faces blackened and otherwise disguised,) on Saturday night, sawed away the support of a bridge, and left it so as to present no appearance of danger from the road, by which the cars with their passengers, would have been precipitated in an abyss, and their lives probably all been sacrificed. There were about 150 passengers in the cars, but the injury to the bridge was discovered in time to prevent the danger. The track was torn up for the distance of many rods on the eastern side of the bridge. The watchman who discovered them was seized by them and severely beaten. He escaped, however, so as to give reasonable notice of what had occurred, and thus to prevent a great sacrifice of life.

USEFUL HINTS TO PUBLIC SPEAKERS.—It is a curious fact in the history of sound, that the loudest noises always perish on the spot where they are produced, whereas musical notes will be heard at a great distance. Thus, if we approach within a mile or two of a town or village, in which a fair is held, we may hear very faintly the clamor of the multitude, but more distinctly the organs and other musical instruments which are played for their amusement. If a Cienona violin, a real Ammi, be played by the side of a modern fiddle, the latter will sound much louder of the two; but the sweetest brilliant tone of the Ammi will be heard at a distance the other cannot reach. Doctor Young, on the authority of Dehaim, states that, at Gibraltar, the human voice is heard at a distance of ten miles. It is a well known fact that the human voice may be heard at a greater distance than that of any other animal.

Thus, when the cottager in the woods, or in the open plain, wishes to call her husband, who is working at a distance, she does not shout, but pitches her voice to a musical key, which she knows from habit, and by that means reaches his ear. The loud roar of the largest lion could not penetrate so far. "This property of music in the human voice," says the author, "is strikingly shown in the cathedral broad. Here the mass is entirely performed in musical sounds, and becomes audible to every devotee, however placed in the most remote part of the church; whereas, if the same sound had been read, the sounds would not have travelled beyond the precincts of the choir." Those orators who are heard in large assemblies most distinctly, and at the greatest distance, are those who, by modulating the voice, render it more musical. Loud speakers are seldom heard to advantage. Burke's voice is said to have been a sort of lofty cry, which, as much as the formality of his discourse in the House of Commons, to send the members to their dinner. Chatham's lowest whisper, was sweet, rich and beautifully varied. Any writer, describing the orator, when he raised his voice to its highest pitch, the house was completely filled with the volume of sound; and the effect was awful, except when he wished to cheer or animate—and then he had spirit-stirring notes which were perfectly irresistible. The terrible, however, was his peculiar power, then the house sank before him; still he was dignified, and wonderful was this eloquence, it was attended with this important effect, that it possessed every one with a conviction that there was something in him finer even than his words; that the man was greater, infinitely greater, than the orator.—[Cowan.]

BOLD AS A LION.—One of the best jokes of the season is told by the amiable Gones, of consular notoriety. A Southern Adonis, no ways celebrated for his personal attractions, on completing a somewhat protracted toilet one morning, turned to his servant and inquired: "How do I look, Caesar?" "Pleasant, Masses," "pleased!" was ebony's delighted answer. "Do you think I'll do, Caesar?" [giving him a piece of silver.] "Gee, Masses, me neber see you look so fierce in my life, you look just as bold as a lion." "Why, what do you know about a lion?" you never saw one Caesar?" "Nob, see a lion, Masses! Gay, I see Masses Peyton's Jim ride one ober to de mill every day." "No, you fool, dat's donkey." "Can't help that, Masses—go 'n' look jist like him."

A Good One.—An amusing anecdote is related in the Alexandria Gazette, in connection with the President's late tour of inspection through one of the Departments at Washington. Entering one of the rooms, the excellent head of that particular branch of public service was assiduous in his attention to the President, and particularly anxious to impress upon him the necessity of newer and better and safer accommodations of the papers &c. of the office, than the building now contains. "See now, Mr. President," said he, approaching a large table, which contained a number of drawers—"it is in these unsafe and insecure places that we have to keep the most valuable public documents!"—when suiting the action to the word, he pulled out one of the drawers—and lo and behold it was found to contain—a bottle of port, and a respectable luncheon of crackers and cheese! The contre temps brought up the worthy officer with a round turn, and the President laughing heartily at the joke, consoled him with the consolation that fire-proof buildings were hardly necessary for such valuable "public documents" as these.

PRENTICE'S LARK.—Prentice, of the Louisville Journal, having spoken disrespectfully of Capt. Rynders, recently received a message from that notorious republican, threatening to go to Louisville for the purpose of whipping him. Prentice, in reply, bids him welcome; but ventures to hope that he will be in a condition to use his fists, as on a former occasion he passed through that city hand cuffed.

To the Electors of the County of Milwaukee.

GENTLEMEN:—I am a candidate for the office of Register of deeds for this County. I made the nomination myself (with the advice of my friends) and of course think it a good one and hope to be elected.

I come out in this way for the reason that I consider myself full as good a man and as well qualified to discharge the duties of the office as the man nominated at the Prairieville Convention on the 30th of August. The office I want to discharge is a very delicate and important one, and I shall be very much obliged, and if elected will serve you according to the best of my ability.

Yours, &c., WM. A. RICE.
